

The current consideration for altering net neutrality has me gravely concerned. I believe the access to information and knowledge, and the ability to express one's opinion is a necessary and critical part of being a thriving citizen. Placing throttling abilities on internet access in the hands of companies could have a devastating impact on American's ability to learn, to communicate, to do business and to enjoy the current human experience. The power of knowledge should never, ever be manipulated by a select few companies; please do not jeopardize our individual success for the sake of profit.